

Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 19 Nov 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Cloudy with brief sunny spells developing. Overcast later.

Today:

A cloudy and breezy start to Friday, it should be dry with some bright or brief sunny spells developing late morning onwards. Parts of Cumbria likely to hold on to the cloud for most of the day. Another mild day. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:

Any clear spells filling in during the evening as cloud builds from the north. The cloud becoming thick enough for a little light drizzle here and there. Minimum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Saturday:

Cloud increasing with outbreaks of rain pushing south during the day, sunny spells developing during the afternoon with some showers possible. Turning colder with the wind from the northwest. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:

Turning much colder and brighter on Sunday and Monday with overnight frosts. Rather cloudy on Tuesday, perhaps with some light rain or drizzle in places.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.